atton Avenue, College Street and lower Haywood Street form a triangle around what is now known as Pritchard Park. Between 1892 and 1930 the park space was occupied by the Federal Building with the city's main US Post Office inside. At that time, the block of College Street bordering the Federal Building was known as Government Street.

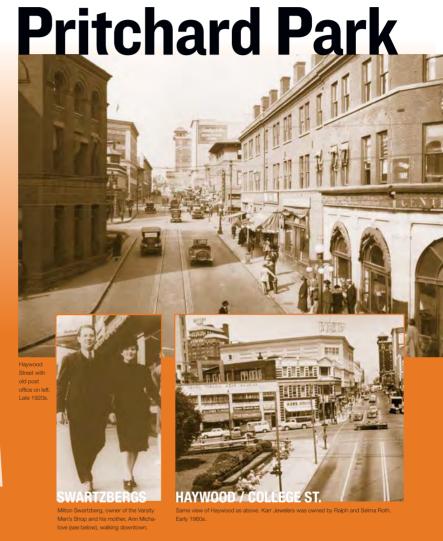

When E. W. Grove donated land for a new Federal building this triangle of land was conveyed from the federal government to the City of Asheville so that the surrounding streets could be widened with the remaining interior land to be used as a public park.

Will Open Shop

Will Open Snop
Doray's Millinery shop will be opened at 11 Haywood street, the former location of Brener's ladies shop, on or about July 20 by Mrs. Dora Rapport, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. Rapport has just returned from New York City where she completed the purchase of the stock for the store.

H. LEVITCH

Lower Haywood Street

The IXL shop sold chi er and glassware. It later moved to Haywood Street. The founder vas Solomon Michalove, grandfather of Milton Swartzberg of the Varsity Men's Shop owned by Milton Swartzberg to two families that came to Ash in the 1890s and owned num businesses in the mother was Ann Michalove and his father was Isaac Swartzberg. Miltor started the Varsity Men's Shop when he was 19 ears old and late owned Milton's

Man Shop on Pat

chored by the Central Bank and Trust on the corner, and the 1920s, these included Brener's ladies clothing and Fater's cigar store right next to Asheville Central Bank

Doray's Millinery

Owned by Dora Rapport, a member of the Blom-berg family, which owned many stores in downtown Asheville between 1887 and 2006. Mrs. Rapport bought hats wholesale, but also made hats to sell to the ladies of the 1930s through the Shop, Dorav's Millinery, Brener's, Fleanor dress and hat ing place. The block was torn down in the 1960s and to Asheville from New York City ing for a "better way of life and a new location for his business sellina iuvenile furniture." (AVL Citizen-Times. 12/12/78) He had picked a location spent the night in way there. The next morning, the odor of logs burning in fireplaces influenced his decision to make his home in Asheville. Along with his wife, Florence, he ran a memorable toy store for more than thirty-five years